The journey of translation is far more challenging than original writing. During translation, many regional and dialectical words do not have equivalents in the target language. Every region has its unique cuisine, culture, attire, vocabulary and traditions, making translation difficult and at times literal rather than interpretive.

This was stated by senior Sindhi author Khiman U Mulani while addressing, Lekhak se Bheint, programme organised by Sahitya Academy at Sanskriti Bhavan in Bhopal on Monday.

His works include poetry, novels, stories and interviews. Mulani has translated nearly 500 pieces and won awards for 10 of his books.
