Prayagraj: While presiding over a two-day national seminar on the contribution of Bhojpuri, Awadhi, Braj and Bundelkhandi languages in the development of Hindi under the joint aegis of Sahitya Akademi at Uttar Pradesh Rajarshi Tandon Open University on Thursday, Vice Chancellor of Uttar Pradesh Rajarshi Tandon Open University Professor Satyakam said that language acts as a bridge between different cultures and also within its own culture. The attempt to make them a wall is not beneficial for any language and culture. To establish this concept, this national seminar is being organized on the contribution of Bhojpuri, Awadhi, Braj and Bundelkhandi languages in the development of Hindi. In the seminar organized at the Atal Auditorium of the University, Vice Chancellor Professor Satyakam praised the Honorable Chief Minister of Uttar Pradesh and expressed gratitude and said that the inclusion of these languages in the proceedings of the Assembly is a welcome and progressive step. This will not only develop Hindi but will also strengthen the roots of all the languages of Uttar Pradesh. He emphasized on the simplification of languages.

Professor Haridatt Sharma, a Special guest Ravi Nandan Singh, editor of Saraswati magazine, said that language cannot develop without the development of dialects. Awadhi, Bhojpuri, Brajbhasha and Bundeli are not different from Hindi. They are also a form of Hindi. He said that only that lan-and music also plays an important role in this.

The guests were welcomed by Mr. Ajay Sharma of Sahitya Akademi. The programme was conducted by Dr. Trivikram Tiwari and the vote of thanks was given by Professor S. Kumar.

On the first day of the national seminar, two technical sessions were organized on the development of Bhojpuri and the development of Awadhi. In which Dr. Satya Prakash Pal, Dr. Pradeep Kumar, Professor Ajit Kumar Singh, Dr. Satya Prakash Tripathi, Ravi Nandan Singh, Ajit Singh etc. gave lectures. On this occasion, Shreyash Shukla and Sanhavi Shukla and their team presented folk songs in Bhojpuri, Awadhi, Braj and Bundeli. The national seminar will conclude on Friday. Before the closing session, special sessions will be organised on the development of Brajbhasha and Bundelkhandi.

great Sanskrit scholar and the chief guest of the national seminar, said that Sanskrit is the mother of all languages and it connects all languages and dialects with each other. Regional languages are connected to folk life and beautiful songs can be heard in Awadhi, Bhojpuri, Braj Bhasha and Bundeli according to the seasons.

guage is strong which incorporates local languages. Hindi is such a language.

Earlier, while introducing the topic, Professor Prabhakar Singh of Banaras Hindu University said that the contribution of the girls is important in the development of any language. To understand the language, one has to understand the people
